

Mail your student's letters to the future with...

Letter Holding Co.

Teachers: Are you looking for a fun classroom activity that your students will remember for years to come? Have your students mail a hand-written letter to themselves in the future!

How does it work? Simply put, students take a piece of paper and write to themselves in the future with a letter that can include their:

- dream job
- goals
- advice
- predictions
- favorite hobbies or activities

After writing the letter, each student seals their letter in an stamped envelope addressed to themselves.

Then, bundle the student's letters together in a large manilla envelop. Insert an order form and optional donation into the large envelope, and mail it all to LHC. The letters are securely held until the date you specify for return. Contact LHC for order forms or detailed instructions.

What does it cost? Our suggested holding fee is $2 per each student letter. This fee pays for LHC to hold the letters up to 8 years. Each letter must have a postage stamp.

Can LHC provide demonstrations or letter mailing supplies? Yes, contact us!

Do students have to write their own address? No. If preferred the classroom's letters can be mailed back together to a school office by LHC after the holding period.

Pros: (1) Each student letter doesn't require a stamp. (2) Student addresses' are entirely confidential.
Cons: (1) Students may change school districts before the letters are returned.

Who created Letter Holding Company? Hello, name is Evan. Growing up I was introduced to the power and sincerity of sending a letter by mail through exchanging letters with my family. The power of mailing a letter is something that has stuck with me my entire life- something that I believe should be shared with others.

Drop us a letter (or email if you must) with any questions or suggestions! :D
